Hunton & Williams LLP Launches Blog Dedicated to Employment & Labor Legal Issues

Hunton & Williams announced today the launch of the Hunton Employment & Labor Perspectives™ blog, www.huntonlaborblog.com, which focuses on comment and analysis of developments in employment and labor law. The blog features hot topics on a broad range of related topics in the news; analysis of federal and state legislation; and recent court and regulatory decisions.

“The Hunton Employment & Labor Perspectives blog gives us the platform to share relevant and critical new information with our clients as soon as it becomes available,” said Greg Robertson, who is co-chair of the firm’s labor and employment practice and based in the firm’s Richmond office. He added, “Our goal is to leverage the experience of our team of professionals to provide comprehensive commentary on the issues that matter most to our clients.” Laura Franze, the team’s co-chair based in Los Angeles, observed, “This platform also gives us a mechanism to keep our West Coast clients up to date on events occurring in California while alerting our clients throughout the country to trends which might be coming their way.”

The Hunton & Williams LLP labor and employment law practice covers the entire spectrum of labor and employment law, including litigation before state and federal courts as well as proceedings before the EEOC, OFCCP, NLRB, Labor Department and state administrative agencies.

The team’s experience focuses on class and collective actions, wage-hour standards, ERISA, trade secret and non-competition agreements, federal contract compliance, traditional labor matters, occupational safety and health, whistleblower litigation, discrimination and disability claims, labor and employment arbitration and client counseling under federal and state labor and employment laws.
